

Weeds

It is wise to mow the foliage when it isn't possible to keep the plot free of weeds. Especially if it already largely has died back. Of course it makes no sense to grow a crop if it already has been overgrown by weeds.

Leaf nematodes can infect the plot by hitchhiking on weeds(seeds).

Before the winter it is therefore necessary to make sure that weeds are completely gone. But peonies are extremely sensitive for RoundUp. This herbicide, especially in combination with bluegrass, can never be used in the peony. Because the herbicide will get absorbed through the roots.
